repealer with the approval of 70 per cent of the State and that henceforth the dry tenets of the Republicans would be exceedingly unpopular in New York. It would be difficult to elect Republicans, in New York, particularly if the Republican administration should align itself with the fanatical drys.

ADVISED TO GO SLOW

The hope was expressed that Mr. Harding would not permit an army of Federal prohibition enfercement efficers to be sent to New York to undertake what the State was about to relinquish. It would only embitter Republicans and drive them into the Democratic camp. The position of the New York leaders was akin to that of the retreating Confederate general, who ordered his rear guard to cease firing at the Yanke, adding: "Can't ye see it only makes 'em madder."

The President heard the argument with patience and then informed his callers that he would be obliged to enforce the law to the full eatent of the national government's resources without ulterior consideration. In line with this utterance was the news from Washington today that 10e Federal prohibition agents would be sent to New York at once.

One Republican leader thinks ADVISED TO GO SLOW

pronibition agents would be sent to New York at once. One Republican leader thinks the only party salvation in New York and other wet States is to put up Republican carelidates as wet as their Democratic opponents. DIFFERENT OPINION

Here is a different view I obtained at Republican State head-quarters.

Upstate New York is dry. In New York City the outery against prohibition comes from the well-to-do who have not been without their liquor a minute, but are paying high prices to bootleg-gers. But poor people have money in the bank for the first time and you will find the women voting dry overwhelmingly. The Demo-crats cannot get anywhere next year without a wet platform and the zolid South and dry West will keep their platform dry. We have nothing to fear for the prohibition issue.

nothing to fear for the prohibition issue.

Meanwhile the thirsty ones here are wondering when it is going to be possible to get a drink with a kick. The police have been instructed to make arrests only when they actually observe viciation of the law. Hearsay evidence they are to turn over to the Federal authorities. But if the lid has been tilted few know it up to date.

SEEK AMENDMENT DEFEAT

This problem becomes more difficult when it is understood that the purpose of the whole prepaganda is to defeat the Plattamendment and to diveges the United States from any influence in Cuban affairs.

There is an organization in Cuba which has ramifications in Rio de Janeiro and in Santiago devoted to the idea of belittling the United States as an influence in Latin-America. This organization is the more difficult to combat by reason of the fact that it is almost impossible to fix an official responsibility upon it. At the same time the American government has no intention of abandoning the rights which it gained in the affairs of Cuba as a result of a bloody war which it fought against Spain. This government is also convinced that the majority of the Cuban people are not in favor of this campaign against the United States and that, as a matter of fact, the great proportion of the Cuban people comprehend that Americans are their best friends.

Dempsey's long layoff has not done him any good. It must be remembered that he has not had a fight in two years. A boxer loses his "eye" after such a long period of inactivity. He may get into excellent condition following a long course of training and may look good and feel good, but he will discover in actual combat that fighting in the ring with a determined rival and boxing with mediocre sparring partners are two vastly different things.

The church cup, emblematic of the eastern cities championship, goes to the winner of tonight's battle.

The Philadelphia players had available with the matches—In the singles events they won five of the six tilts and in the doubles they made a clean sweep of the field. William Tilden of Philadelphia was one of the first winners, easily defeating Nathan Niles by a score of 6-5, 6-4; Norris Williams, also of Philadelphia scored a point for his "old home town" when he trimmed Lawrence Rice, he a tough three-set match, the scores being 3-6, 6-4, 8-4.

The matches tonight will be full of good tennis as New Tork has one of the strongest teams in the league and will give Philadelphia hard race for first place and the Church Cup. Tilden and Williams are the two mainstays of the Quaker players, but they will have a lot of competition in tonight's fray.

The results of the matches were as follows, Dr. P. B. Hawk of Philadelphia defeated E. T. Herndon, 5-7, 8-8; Williams and Stanley Pearson defeated Richard Harts and Harry Johnson, 6-1, 6-4, and Schafer and Fischer of Philadelphia defeated Rice and Caner, 5-5, 6-4, 6-4.

Battling Nelson Will Appear at Lyceum Club in Exhibition Bout Tonight

After an absence of fourteen years, Battling Nelson will make his appearance in a Los Angeles ring tonight. The former lightweight champion of the world will box an exhibition with Phil Salvadore, one of the crack modern lightweights, as an added attraction of the Lyceum Athletic Club boxing program.

Famous old ringmen of this city will be on hand to welcome the great old-timer. In his last appearance here, boxing for Tom McCarey, Nelson went ten rounds with Ad Wolgast, who was destined to releive him of his title a few years later. Wolgast is now living at Vernon and will be at the ringside to be introduced with Nelson.

Four other ex-champions of the world who reside in this city have premised to be on hand. They are Jim Jeffries, former heavyweight champion, former heavyweight champion, and Kid Williams, former weiterweight champion. Al Greenwald, George Blake, Charlie Eyton, De Witt Van Court, H. M. "Besnie" Walker, Harry Carr, Ed O'Malley, Billy De Coursey, Eid McCoy and other prominent personages in the boxing game of two decades ago have promised to be on hand to make a bow with Nelson. Nelson and Salvadore will be used as an added attraction in addition to the regular card.

TROON, June 8.—Not long ago I read an article in a news was by a well-known player, and he suggested that the surest way to hit the ball was by taking the club back with a straight left arm and keeping the arm straight at the top of the swing. This is not a new theory, but it useds a lot of explanation; otherwise it is mis-leading.

the top of the swing. This is not a new theory, but it needs a lot of explanation; otherwise it is misleading.

There are two important things to be considered in the golf swing—perhaps I had better say the golf style. They have to de with swinging the club. Some golfers swing at a ball with what is known as the upright swing. Others are lined up about fifty-fifty between the two styles of play.

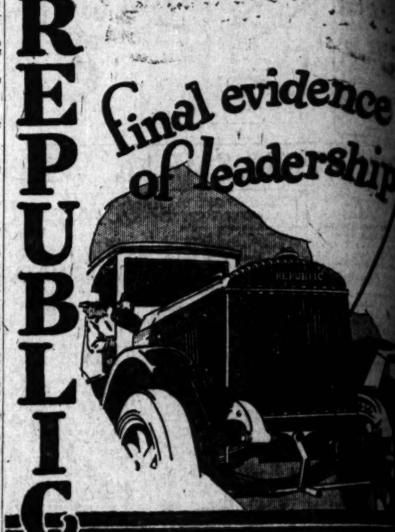

An upright swing means that the club is brought up in an upright circle, while the flat swing is more around the body. In beginning golf it is necessary first telearn whether your swing is upright or flat. Either one will do to start with, but one must find out immediately on account of purchasing club. Upright swingers must use club with upright less and flat swingers use flat lies.

Most golfers feel insulted if reminded that they have a flat swings. It does not mean that the swing is a bad one in any sense of the word. Some of the greatest of the word. Some of the greatest of the word. Some of the greatest of the word. Some of the flattest of all flat swingers. If you have ever seen a picture of little Mack at the top of the swing you will observe that he has the left arm out as straight as a ramrod. All flat swingers can employ the straight left, as there is no necessity of bringing the hands up any higher than the shoulder.

SHA4PHEL HARRY A. WILLIAMS. Projector Hard Solons Bunch Bingles and are coming out of Shelby, Mont. But the real puzzler is Downs Detroit

Mont. But the real puzzler is the story of Rocco Stramaglia, obscure Portland middleweight, who arrived at the Dempsey camp and departed, all within twenty-four hours. According to the first and apparently uncensored account, Rocco proved entirely too reocco. So much so that after he had punched Dempsey fizzy for two rounds and the champion could not stop him, Jack Kearns called time. Then there was a later story to the effect that Stramaglia left camp after having been knocked out three times in one afternoon.

Was the original story merely a press agent yarn, or did some reporter unschooled in training camp conventions simply slip the world at large a fistful of facts?

The second story, denying the first, came along fast, so fast as to leave the impression that Kearns had rushed to the nearest telegraph office. Either way, it went across big, and if it is true that the stranger actually whaled Dempsey in a rough, awkward, uncouth sort of way, the story will actually boost the fight, as it would tend to enhance the chances of Gibbons.

While if the reports are while if the reports are based on facts, the incident will strike the average person as stranger than fiction, yet there is a strain of plausibility in the story.

Descriptions of Stramaglia convey the impression that he is of a type that might bother Dempsey. He is described as posessed of a puzzling awkwardness. It will be recalled that Dempsey generally had a tough time with Phat Willie Mechan.

Ring awkwardness in its results is very closely related to cleverness. Cleverness is designed to bewilder an opponent, yet awkwardness may prove almost as puzzling.

It is conceivable that Stragmalis may have had a style which was a couplete enginate to Dempsey on first acquaintance, and that he would have measured him in a second encounter.

A sparring partner who can hit and rough it, and does not know his steff as it is supposed to be done in training camps is a dangerous thing.

According to the accounts, the stranger landed on Dempsey time and again and the champion's best ones to the jaw failed to stop him. If there is even a half truth in all this what an easy mark Dempsey would be for a really clever man who can take them and hit back.

However, caution prompts one to accept training camp tales of this nature with a degree of reservation.

Many will recall the interesting story which came out of Carson City regarding Jim Jeffries, a big, strong, unskilled youngster, who was hired as a punching bag for Corbett, then training to meet Pitasimmons.

According to this, Jeff knocked Corbett cuckoo in a workout behind closed doors. that this happened was desied, but years later Jeff did that thing to Jim twice in public. At that particular time Corbett was champion, yet bubequent developments indicated that there were three better men in the world—Pitasimmons, Jeffries and Sharkey. That much for the imaginary invincibility which sometimes hedges about a champ, and which may be rudely dispelled by a stranger who becomes too carnest.

Doubling in Brass

WHEN a member of an Uncle Tom stronge plays Simon Legree on the stage and the slide tron in the parade, he is said to "double in brass." Doubling in brass is velvet for the manager. He gets two "artists" for the price of one, saving a meal ticket and a railroad ticket, to say nothing of a salary. Perhaps this idea will help us to explain the double buying-power of a large part of The Literary Digest subscribers.

TE HAVE just inspected our subscription list. We now know what our subscribers do for a living, and especially what position they occupy in their businesses. Most of them (73% to be exact), are at or near the top, where they are able to influence a great deal of buying. .

A man who owns a business and a home is a customer of two capacities—a business capacity and a home capacity. Let us see how this works out.

Here we have Mr. C who is a miner. He is the executive head of a company engaged in extracting ore.

Of the 18,853 Digest subscribers engaged in mining, 12,836 are owners, officers, or executives. [See note].

Mr. C contracts for or influences the buying of supplies for his mining company and for his home.

Therefore he is a multiple customer. He is reached in both capacities by the same copy, of The Digest.

He might buy the same paint and varnish, for instance, for the up-keep of his plant as he buys for the upkeep of his home.

The Digest may be said to "double in brass" for the advertiser who sells things bought for both a business and a home.

not wish to rest a few moments. The former Premier made no reply, but stood looking vacantly at the court, and auddenly crumpled at his desk. He recovered from the fainting spell within a quarter of an hour, when he was taken home. He has been greatly depressed since the recent death of his wife.

Rene Viviani, who is 80 years of age, was Premier of France in August, 1914, when war was declared. He retired as head of the government after the hostilities had continued for a year, in order to allow formation of the coalition Cabinet under Briand. He has visited the United states on several occasions, most recently as a member of the French delegation to the Washington conference. Early last year he announced his retirement from official life, returning to his law phactice.

Fellx Rackemann, counsel for the Transcript, said today that several considerations made it seem advisable to test the constitutionality of the statute. He pointed out that the law seemed to be at variance with the bill of rights, which says that all persons shall be assured of proper remedies for perjury suffered in person, property or character.

He also quastioned the right of

He also questioned the right of the Legislature to decree that a newspaper shall publish something at advertising rates on a given day, arguing that the act was comparable to an ultimatum that a merchant should deliver to the State House a certain number of yards of cloth at a certain time, subject to the penalty.

of cloth at a certain time, subject to the penalty.

The theory of the whole act, Mr. Rackemann argued, was that while the Legislature had no power to compel an employer to pay certain wages, it might by a species of mild terrorism exert the influence of public opinion on such an employer by publication of his name in newspapers or a threat to punish. He questioned that the Legislature had the right to compel a newspaper to take such an advertisement which, on the face of it, might contain libelous matter.

A PLAIN STATEMENT

I propose to drill a total of twelve oil wells on Signal Hill, Huntington Beach and other equally good structures, on which I hold extensive and valuable leases, for the principal purpose of adding one million new subscribers to the California Illustrated Review.

It is my intention and purpose to make every one of these wells a notable producer, substituting better wells for any that may prove poor producers, until the twelve Review wells assure those taking advantage of my offer a most substantial return to them for their help to me in securing the million

Review No. I to Be Deepened

The first Review well, Review No. 1, on Signal Hill, came in in March with a flush production of 5000 barrels and produced from 1500 to 2000 barrels steadily until recently, when water from nearby drilling wells made water trouble with it. This well I am now drilling an additional seven hundred feet to cement off the strata in which this water is traveling. This should make it one of the best wells on the hill.

Huntington Beach Well Completed

The second Review well on Huntington Beach has been drilled to a depth of 5111 feet, with about two hundred feet of rich oil sand. The casing is now being set, when it will be cemented for a water shut off and then brought in.

Review Transport No. 2 "Comes In"

The third well, Review-Transport No. 2, came in Sunday night with a flush production estimated at 15,000 barrels. It has been pinched down to a three-quarter-inch beam and is making approximately 4000 barrels with 400 pounds pressure and three million feet of gas. This well should produce around 5000 barrels per day when it has cleaned

The fourth well, Review-Transport No. 3, is to be drilled one mile deep on the same lease as Transport No. 2, special preparations having been made to drill it that deep. It should tap the great, new sand that the nearby Andrews well reached. It is now down 3100 feet and should be completed by the end of this month.

Eight More Wells

Eight other wells are to be drilled on those leases that prove the most productive through the drilling of the first wells and on other equally good holdings. These twelve wells will cost approximately one

The Life Interest Offer

I have no securities, units, stocks or other investment to offer in these wells.

The offer is that those agreeing to send in the names of their friends or acquaintances, particularly in the east and middle west, to receive the Review for one year each, will be given, without any investment, a life interest in one-third of the net production proceeds of these wells.

I am simply offering to exchange a life interest in these twelve wells, for a service on the part of a large number of people, that could not be obtained in any other way, even by the expenditure of several million dollars.

You can make gifts of the subscriptions, and you have a year in which to send them in. I am drilling the wells NOW, however, and expect to have them all on production before you have to send in the subscribers' names.

What a Million Subscribers Means to Me

A million additional subscribers to the Review would enable me to charge $4000 per page per issue for its advertising space.

A million new subscribers could probably not be secured in any other way, even at the expenditure of several million dollars.

It is a simple, straight business proposition, through which you profit, I profit, and a million copies of the California Illustrated Review will every month for a year to come, be sent into a million new homes throughout America, to the profit and benefit of California.

This offer has been held open until the first two big wells have been brought in. A third well is about to be brought in, and the fourth well is already down more than half way on a lease that cost $110,000 for the single acre and is in the heart of the biggest production on Signal Hill. This "Mile Deep" well will, in my judgment, prove the biggest well ever drilled on Signal Hill.

Life Interest Offer to Be Withdrawn Soon

This offer of the life interests in these wells without a dollar's investment on your part, will be FINALLY AND COMPLETELY WITHDRAWN when the Review well on Huntington Beach, now through drilling and ready to bring in, when cemented, "comes in."

By taking advantage of the offer now, you will share in the wells already drilled and the other eight to be drilled. By waiting until the Huntington Beach remaining eight wells.

There are one hundred thousand interests offered, which is equivalent to but ten thousand interests per well.

One life interest is given you in ten wells for your underwriting ten new subscriptions at $1 per year. If you underwrite a total of one hundred subscribers, you get ten life interests and also a life interest in the two Review-Transport wells, one of which has just come in. The other is the "MILE DEEP" WELL now drilling.

Twelve Good Producers

You are not asked to gamble in oil, I am doing the gambling, taking all the hazards, and will own the wells, gambling, taking all the hazards, and will own the wells, but will assign a one-third of the net production proceeds for life of the wells to those who underwrite the new readers to the Review. It is one of those unusual propositions where everyone gets their money's worth and everyone profits. If any of the Review wells fail to come in, I propose to drill additional ones, until I have secured the full dozen good producers, for those who help me get what I want: a million additional readers for the Review.

choose between his wife and children and the cook, he unhesitatingly elected to keep the latter and let family ties go hang. The result was a divorce and the breaking of the ties of affection between him and his children. Now he is married to the culivary artist and it is a safe bet that his outraged family will be amply revenged. As the wife of a millionaire the former cook will undoubtedly begin to yearn for furs, jewels and the social whirl, and blush to remember the days when she was a kitchen mechanic. The woman has yet to be born who could keep her mind concentrated on the kitchen stove when the contents of a fat pocketbook are at her discussed. This is the month of a fat pocketbook are at her discussed for life.

Judge James H. Malone of Men phis, one of the prominent attor brought out a "History of the Chickasaw Nation" which will be details concerning the American Indian.

Judge Malone has traced the career of a tribe which, its limited mumbers and the terrific odds against which it had to fight being considered, is probably the most heroic that thrived on this continent before the white man became ascendant.

The Chickasaw Nation, which at the time of the coming of the Spaniards numbered scarcely 4000 men, women and children, was for not several centuries the dominant factor in the Mississippi Valley region.

Going against other tribes whose warriors in some instances outnumbered them seven to one on the field of battle, these remarkable fighters made their influence felt from the Great Lakes to the Gulf and received emissaries from white leaders, who wished to establish settlements on the South Atlantic Coast.

were threatening English dominion on the east bank of the Mississty-pl this imperious tribe, whose-boast was that it never raised the latchet against English analytic

To this tribe, or nation, Gen. Washington addressed a number of his most interesting letters—letters which, by the way, not only showed his keen insight into Indian politics, but into human nature as well.

On more than one occasion the Chickasawa received special honors and gifts from the great white chieftain, as well as from the general government. To be sure, the government later on took back these gifts with interest by depriving the Chickasawa, along with the other Indians, of their homes, but before the "Great Father" felt compelled to push his red brothers ever toward the setting sun the Chickasaws were a real power in own in the land.

It finally went overboard with a dozen others, and the title finally decided on is "Why Worry?" "Why Worry?" was seven months in the making, so Harold Lloyd feels he is entitled to a vacation. He and Mrs. Lloyd, formerly Mildred Davis, his leading lady, will leave for New York Wesdnesday, to be gone about three weeks. This will give the pair a chance to look over the new shows and meet a few friends. Then it will be home again to begin work on a turned to his native circus.

Another player who is going to be a sensation, it is said, is Jobyna Ralston, Lloyd's new leading lady. Being Lloyd's wife is a wonderful thing, of course, still it wouldn't be wondered at if Mildred turns somewhat envious eyes at this new leading lady's success. However, Mildred is a good scout and just pats Miss Ralston on the back and says 'Go to it!'

Lloyd says he is going to keep on with his newly adopted system of making one type of picture and then another, following farce with a human inferest picture, a thriller with farce, etc., this having proven eminently successful.

The dicture which Lloyd will make on his return from New York, according to present plans, will be something on the human interest plane, as "Grandma's Boy" was. At present, a mountaineer, hero is in contemplation, but he is subject to change at a moment's notice.

BLINN WILL RETURN

STAR OF "BAD MAN" IN NEW PLAY NEXT SEASON

By Edwin Schaller

On his departure for the East early in July, Holbrook Blinn, who is appearing in the play, "The Bad Man," and who is going to be starred simultaneously in the pieture, will not sever his connections permanently with the Coast. In fact, quite the opposite. He plans to spend ensuing winters here. At least, he has practically decided that he will come out next season to put on one of three dramatic pieces that he is now considering, two of these being by foreign authors and one by an American.

Mr. Blinn has a film engagement in a costume drama that will shortly take him to New York. He will remain there until after the fall season opens, but has no present intention of putting on a play at that time.

"I much prefer to spend my winters on the Coast," he said yesterday, "and Thomas Wilkes is making arrangements to give the premiere of my new play.

"It is very satisfactory for tryouts here, and the cost of staging a play is not so great as in New Tprk."

One of the plays which Mr. Blinn is considering approaches the tragic type. However, he prefers something in the vein of light comedy, and for the present at least he is avoiding the characteristic brow drama, such as he played in a few years ago.

Mr. Blinn has completed his role of the King in Mary Pickford's production of "The Street Singer," which, by the way, will be retitled. The construction of the Bagdad settings is progressing very rapidly, and tests of a number of members of the cast have already been made. Doug and Mary came up from the seaside location, at which they have been vacationing, and visited the studio to look over the preparations for "The Thief of Bagdad" and also to see Mary Pickford's feature, which is nearly cut and edited. OPENS AT KINEMA

One of the most elaborate sequences in "The Dramatic Life of Abraham Lincoln," which Philip Rosen is directing, will be photographed next Sunday. This is the ballroom scene in the East Room of the White Heass. The company is working at the Mayer-Schulberg studios.

Only Five Characters'
The cast of "Wild Oranges," which King Vidor is now preparing for the screen, will number only five persons—four men and a girl. The feature is adapted from the Joseph Hergeshelmer novel. Vidor expects to start shooting in a week.
This is his second picture for Goldwin's, the first having been "Three Wise Fools."

Star's Father Here
Mary Astor's father, O. I. Langhanke, has come west to join the star and her mother. Mr. Langhanke, who is a teacher and the author of a text-book, has also been his daughter's chief adviser since she began appearing in pictures. Miss Astor has been cast for an important role in William De Mille's cent production, "Spring Magic," adapted from Edward Knoblock's play, "The Faun." Her father plans to remain here indefinitely. added to the personnel by Conduc-tor Walter Henry Rothwell, among them being Benjamin Klatzkin, new first trumper. formerly with the New York Philharmonic, and the past year with the Minneapolis Symphony; Alfred Brain, a young Englishman one year with Dama-rosch in New York as first horn, and Fritz Gaillard, 'cellist, former-ly with Mengelberg.

Miss Lucille Brentner will dance this evening at a benefit sports fete at the Ambassador tennis courts. The affair is being staged by the Zeta Tau Alphs Sorority of U.S.C. Broadway at 9th

District Attorney Looks Over Field of Eligibles for Chief Deputy

. HIS STAFF

While trying to decide upon va-rious changes in his office, includ-ing the appointment of a chief deputy, Dist.-Atty. Keyes, recently appointed to fill the unexpired term of Thomas Lee Woolwins.

appointed to fill the unexpired term of Thomas Lee Wootwise, yesterday was showered with flowers in his office. Numerous friends sent the new District Attorney large floral pieces in homor of his appointment as District Attorney.

Mr. Keyes gave no intimation yesterday regarding whom he would appoint as his chief deputy. Speculation linked the names of Charles W. Fricke, Buran R. Fitts, Thomas B. McClolland, A. H. Van Cott and H. B. G. MoCartney with the possible appointment. All are now members of the District Attorney's staff and have had considerable experience in court cases.

Whether or not any other changes would be made immediately in the office was not stated. It was understood, though, that changes in the policy and probably in the personnel of the office would be made gradually.

One of the largest bustern of flowers sent Mr. Keyes was from Capt. John D. Fredericks. It had a card with the inscription: "In honor of one of my old boys." Mr. Keyes was a deputy while Capt. Fredericks was District Attorney. Baskets of flowers were also received from "all the girls in the office," Mrs. Rose Murray, Mrs. James P. Hogan, Mrs. D. Cunningham and D. Stathaton and members of the detective burear of the Police department.

Mr. Keyes held an informal conference yesterday with members of the detective burear of the Board of Supervisors at which time plann for the suppression of crime in Los Angeles were gone into.

COUNCILMEN IN EX-WIFE AIDS POLICE QUIZ Mock Wedding

An indictment charging Robert G. Francois, 43 years of age, with bigamy, embezzlen.ent and grand larceny will probably be asked when the grand jury assembles Tuesday. Mrs. Slanche Uniack, who for a few months was one of his wives, spent yesterday with Detective Lieuienants Cate and Cahill gathering evidence.

Mrs. Uniack was married to Francois last July, but was desertied by him ten days later. Francois took with him diamonds valued at $6000, Mrs. Uniack stated. She obtained an annulment April 6, last. Francois was arrested in New York City, and is now being held for the Los Angeles authorities on picture actress, and Lieut, Harry Watson, United States Air Service, were being united in a military mock wedding at the Ambassador late dealing with the Concrete and the detectives scrutinized these yesterday in the belief that an embezzlement charge could be obtained on this score.
